

Going to the AFE and seeing all these mining and resource extraction sessions, it got me to thinking: the Elder's say that coal is the Liver of Mother Earth, it's a filter for ground water. Well, what if the gold, copper, silver is Mother Earth's kidneys and heart, what if the oil and gas are Mother Earth's blood line. In our culture when we hunt or fish for our food we give back to Mother Earth what we do not use. If we gather wood, we do not leave anything behind, we use limbs and all. This is respect for Mother Earth and giving thanks for allowing us to gather for our use. What are all these companies giving back to Mother Earth? Mother Earth is sick, right now she may have the flu, with the climate changing all over the world. If they keep taking from Mother Earth and not giving anything back, maybe she will end up with pneumonia and then what?

Jessica Standifer

Native Village of Tyonek